Subject: W/T Net of Gruppe VI E of the RSHA			Date 24 Sep 45

PERTINENT INFORMATION:

Verbatim

In 1943, when Dr. HOESTER took charge of most of the operations of VI E, he immediately re-activated his own net, but kept it apart from the general net, except in a few instances where particularly trustworthy Hauptbeauftragte had been installed (eg, HUNGARY and JUGOSLAVIA) to whom he felt he could entrust the management of his special lines. This also applied to the ROMANIA Refurat which Dr. HOESTER did not direct himself, but where he had close personal relations with SS Hauptsturmfuehrer AUNER.

Did some agents by-pass the Hauptbeauftragte and transmit direct to VI E headquarters?

Not as a rule. WANECK, Gruppenleiter VI E, was the stickler for the Hauptbeauftragte system. Besides, he being that he was a very strict disciplinarian, he was not at all inclined to let agents bypass the Hauptbeauftragte system.

It was also the policy of the RSHA, and particularly of the VI E, to keep the net as separate as possible from the general net. This was done by having the net operate on a separate frequency and by having the net operate on a separate system of communication.
